Lecture presented in the opening session of a meeting of catholic educators in Pernambuco. Having in mind the situation of catholic high-schools that serve a privileged clientele, examines: (1) The reasons justifying the trust of the families in the same schools; (2) The socio-religious vision of the families in its educational, social and religious aspects, and (3) Some challenges of an education for social justice, to be offered by the type of college in question. Finally, poses six questions to stimulate the reflexion of discussion groups.
